Note: Much of the difference between operating income and net income in 2010 is attributable to a gain from reclassifying the value of the company's previous investment in a business it acquired during the year. The acquisition is also reflected by the large increase in total assets in 2010.

salty, sweet, and grain-based snacks, carbonated soft drinks, noncarbonated beverages, and other foods in approximately 200 countries. Some of the company's key brands include Pepsi, Pepsi One, Diet Pepsi, Mug, Mountain Dew, Sierra Mist, Frito-Lay, Doritos, Cheetos, Tostitos, Sunchips, SoBe and SoBe Lifewater, Propel, Quaker, and Tropicana. Pepsi also holds the trademarks for many valuable products, including Lipton, Starbucks, Dole, and Ocean Spray.⁵³

Pepsi's goal is to be the world's best consumer products company in convenient foods and beverages. The company seeks to accomplish its goal by producing "financial rewards to investors as we provide opportunities for growth and enrichment to our employees, our business partners and the communities in which we operate." An important part of Pepsi's mission statement is its socially responsible approach, concentrating on improving all aspects of the world in which it operates—the environment, societies, and economies.⁵⁴ The company puts its vision into action through meeting consumer needs, environmental stewardship initiatives, societal benefits, employee support and organizational programs, and operations that increase shareholder value.⁵⁵

As is the case for Coca-Cola, Pepsi's strategies maintain an international focus and include improvements in product development and marketing. The company has recently made significant changes to packaging, redesigning Pepsi brand products, Sierra Mist, and others. Additionally, Pepsi introduced a new advertising campaign that put a modern twist on the "Pepsi Generation" campaign used in the 1960s. The campaign combined footage from the old advertisements with current images to express the new tagline, "Every Generation Refreshes the World."⁵⁶ By focusing on social responsibility and diversifying its brand and product portfolio, Pepsi has become one of the most successful global food and beverage companies in history (for selected financial data on the PepsiCo, Inc., see Exhibit 4).

Possible Future Actions

Moving into 2011, Larry Young had many decisions to make. While he was pleased by the performance of many of the company's individual brands, Young knew the firm had to cut costs in order to improve profit margins. However, DPS could not afford to make any cuts that would damage its strong brands or alienate consumers. Furthermore, DPS's rivals, Coke and PepsiCo, were experiencing much higher performance levels than DPS and were not going to stand still. How can DPS continue to grow at levels that will satisfy shareholders? To what extent should acquisitions, joint ventures, licensing agreements, and/or internal growth tactics be pursued? Should DPS diversify into other product markets? What other growth options are available to the company? Should any products or brands be divested? Young had a great deal to think about.
